

Introducing Your New Account Statement

Scotiabank has designed a new account statement for you. This statement will show more than your account balance, it will be a tool of ongoing communication with us. We will share with you our news, our milestones and details on products and promotions that we offer and are relevant to you.

On the first page of the new format you will see information that is key to you: Balances, interests charged to your account and any other fees paid. In this way, all fees that impacted your account will be transparent.

Additionally, we will be simplifying the transactions by reducing the number of columns from three to two. In the first column, you will see the changes to your account with a plus sign for deposits and a minus sign for withdrawals. In the other column, you will see your balance. We will continue to keep the last page with the tables to ease the reconciliation of your transactions.

Your account statement will be available monthly to you as usual, via mail or online through Scotia OnLine Banking. You can change the way our statement is delivered by visiting any of our branches.
